FREE MOVEMENT OF FORCES

Generally Believed This Is Provided for to Permit Attack on Germany From the South.

| By Associated Press. | WASHINGTON, November | 3.---Armistice terms which the Austrians have accepted are expected here to furnish a clear index to those which the supreme war council at Versailles is preparing for Germany, Consequently, their publication will carry greater significance than otherwise would attach, since the Austrian surrender had been discounted in advance by the internal disintegration of the dual monarchy and the collapse of the Austro-Hungarlan forces on the Italian front. Official announcement that the armistice had been signed reached the State Department to-day. In making this known, officials gave no indication of the terms imposed, nor was there any explanation of why cessation of hostilities had been delayed twenty-four hours or more after the actual signing of the articles of surrender. The generally accepted view, however, seemed to be that it was decided to have virtually all Italian soil freed of enemy troops before the Italian armies were committed to end their attacks upon the routed Austrian forces.

Military men here said the terms which the supreme war council had prepared would make it impossible for the Austrians ta renew hostilities, and probably included the disarming of the enemy troops, and occupation of strategic points as well. Some of these, namely, Treat and Trieste, already have been occupied by Italian and allied forces. ternal disintegration of the dual mon-

The defection of Austria leaves Ger-sany stripped of its last ally, and mit-ary men here, both allied and Ameri-an, believe that her capitulation will ollow soon after the terms from errolling are submitted.

Not only will the whole fighting man power of allied and American armies be available now for the task of crushing Germany's defensive front but to supplement the already vastly superior equipment of those armies in guns, aircraft and all other war machinery, there is now at the disposal of Marshal Foch all the Bulgarian, Turkish and Austrian military equipment. Salient Fundamentals Involved in Armistice

WASHINGTON, November 3.—Un-the details of the arminities are ven out by the Versailles council, e three salient fundamentals of the three salient fundamentals of the armistice are these, according to the best authorities available here:

1. The evacuation of all occupied territory by Germany, and that the mere granting of an armistice under any terms means that Germany's real object is to bring about peace.

2. The giving of hostages to insure the nonresumption of war. This includes the virtual surrender of the army, occupation of territory and fortresses and the dismantling of the fleet, both being the signs of victory conceded to the allied and American arms. The hostages also will include the use of German railways and water transportation routes.

3. The application of the terms routes.

3. The application of the terms and conditions of an armistice.

The traditional armistice demands that while the negotiations are going on there shall be no active work behind the lines, or, in other words, there shall be an absolute cessation of work either in Germany or out of it that looks to the further arming or support of the armies she now has in the field. Munitions manufacture will come to a standstill it is always understood that there shall be an actual government of th. German people which shall excludithe Hohenzollerns.

Kaiser William Sends Note to Prince Max Pledging Co-Operation for New Government

AMSTERDAM. November 3.—On the occasion of the constitutional amendment coming into force, says an official telegram from Berlin, Emperor William addressed to Prince Maximilian of Baden, the German Imperial Chancellor, a decree indorsing the decisions of the Reichstag and avowing his firm determination to co-operate in their full development. The Emperor's decree reads:

full development. The Emperor's decree reads:

"Your Grand Ducal Highness:

"I return herewith for immediate publication the bill to amend the imperial constitution and the law of March 17, 1879, relative to the representation of the Imperial Chancellor, which has been laid before me for signature.

"On the occasion of this step which is so momentous for the future history of the German people, I have a desire to give expression to my feelings. Prepared for by a series of government acts, a new order comes into force which transfers the fundamental rights of the Kaiser's person to the people.

"Thus comes to a close a period which will stand in honor before the eyes of future generations. Despite all struggles between invested authority and aspiring forces it has rendered possible to our people that tremendous development which imperishably revealed itself in the wonderful achievements of this war. "In the terrible storms of the four years of war, however, old forms have been broken up, not to leave their ruins behind, but to make a pince for a new vital form. "After the achievements of those times the German people can claim that no right which may guarantee a free and happy future shall be withheld from them.

"The proposals of the allied governments which are now adopted and extended owe their origin to this conviction. I, however, with my exalted allies, indorse those decisions of Parliament in firm determination, so far as I am concerned, to co-operate to their full development, convinced that I am thereby promoting the weal of the German people.

In addition, Germany appears still to be unaware that the United States Navy has given the allies the most owerful and longest range slegg guns in the world for attack on the Rhine cities. These guns do not fire a shell of a reduced callber so as to increase the range. The shell is measured by the full caliber of the gun.

If Germany realizes this, as she must do now, with her armies flying north, center and south, army men think the present will only complete the great events of the past week and secure the peace by victory which has been in sight since the Germans were driven back over the Marne in July last. WAR OFFICE ADMITS BREAK Great Part of "Italia Irredenta" Already Occupied by Italian Troops.

By Associated Press.1 Austria-Hungary is out of the war. Descried by her last ally, Germany fights alone a battle which means ultimate defeat or abject surrender.

After days of pleading, an armistice granted Austria-Hungary. whose badly defeated armies in the Italian theater are staggering homeward under the violence of the blows of the entente troops, TRENT AND TRIESTE bians.

In France and Belgium the Germans are being sorely harassed by the British, French, Americans and Belgians, and there are indications that a debacle is about to occur.

The Argonne massif, which has proved a great obstacle to the advance of the French and Americans, at last has been cleared of the enemy, and the entire line appears to be crumbling. American airmen report that the enemy in front of the Americans is retreating northward, that the roads are densely packed with troops, artillery and transport.

Likewise southeast of Valenciennes the Germans are retreating before the British, who are in close pursuit and taking numerous prisoners. North of the Aisne in Champagne the French continue their pressure and have taken several important villages, large numbers of prisoners and great quantities of war stores.

The advance of the Americans and French on the southern part of the battle front, taken in conjunction with the operations of Field Marshal Haig and the Belgians in the north, threatens to prove the culminating blow to Germany's attempts to hold ground in France or Belgium. Indeed, it is not improbable if the advance of the south continues as rapid as it is, the greater portion of the German army will be trapped before the men can reach their border. The situation of the Germans seemingly is a critical one.

Although the Austro-Hungarians have been given an armistice, they are still being bitterly attacked by the Italians. British, French, American and Czecho-Slovak troops in the mountains and on the plains, and will continue under chastisement until Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when a cessution of hostilities will take place.
